

Let's Build the Future of Your Business Together

Entrepreneurial Experience · Enterprise Expertise · Engineering Excellence

E2 INFOSYSTEMS

We are software developers that understand your business values and outcome needs.

AND

Business leaders that understand development decisions.

E2 Infossystems

Satish Albert
CEO

salbert@e2infosystems.com
833.TechNerd

How a healthcare business is improving operational efficiency with E2IS as a development partner.

Overview: E2 Infossystems was hired as a partner by a national healthcare service provider to extend the company's existing development and technology capabilities.

Many companies have a vision for how technology advancement and application development can help their customers and employees, but struggle with the bringing these to life without putting additional strain on existing resources or incurring increased operational expenses.

This healthcare company was no exception.

They had several priorities in the areas of transition from a desktop application to a Next Gen Application for mobile devices, bring a new application to market and migrate to the cloud that were waiting to begin. In addition, they had other projects that had started but could not be completed without additional skills and project oversight.

E2 Infossystems started as a project partner to help get a mobile application off the ground and soon evolved into an engineering partner helping the company efficiently identify, manage and execute their technology and development priorities.

Today, it is not a matter of when they will be done, but what we can do next together.

E2IS helped increase operational efficiency by:

- Being a market-ready development partner
- Immediately closing any skill gap
- Extending the bandwidth of the internal development team
- Providing project leadership aligned with business objectives
- Deploying cost effective processes and development solutions to maximize outcome and minimize expense.

E2 INFOSYSTEMS

e2infosystems.com